

System: Tree detection

A model that predicts tree locations in urban areas using Sentinel-2 satellite imagery and a U-Net segmentation model trained on labeled tree location data from Vienna's Baumkataster. The dataset is split into training and evaluation subsets during training.

Context: Infrared.city project

The system operates in the context of urban environmental analysis and uses Sentinel-2 multispectral satellite imagery together with urban geometry data from OpenStreetMap such as buildings and roads information.

